

Teach English in South Korea

EduNova is seeking qualified candidates for placements teaching ESL in South Korea.

THE OPPORTUNITY

Teaching English in Korea offers an opportunity to earn a competitive salary for university graduates. ESL teachers earn in the range of $2000 - $3000 per month based on experience and qualifications, as well as an attractive benefit package.

SALARY AND BENEFITS

- The typical benefits package includes:
- Return flight home
- 50% of health and medical insurance
- Furnished apartment
- Tax-free salary
- A severance package of one month's salary upon completion of contract

QUALIFICATIONS

- ESL teachers must have a four year undergraduate degree from an accredited university.
- Sense of adventure and willingness to experience a new culture
- Enjoy teaching and working with children
- Strong command of the English language

ABOUT SOUTH KOREA

- South Korea is a major global industrial power and has one of the fastest growing economies in the world.
- South Korea is a modern high tech society but still values tradition and history.
- South Korea is close to Japan, China and South East Asia, and therefore, many ESL teachers will have the opportunity to travel.
- South Korea has a population of 50 million and Seoul a population of approximately 10 million making it the sixth largest city in the world.
- South Korea is a safe and modern country with a vibrant culture.

TEACHING ESL IN SOUTH KOREA – INFO SESSION

Mike Rosson is an experienced ESL teacher who has previously worked in South Korea for two years. Mike will lead this information session with other experienced ESL teachers and educational professionals to inform participants about teaching in South Korea and placement opportunities.

If you are interested in attending a free information session on teaching in South Korea please contact Mike Rosson at mike@edunova.ca or call 902-424-8382.

When I graduated from university I wasn't sure what my next step should be. I had a student loan that I needed to pay off and I was tired of waiting tables for minimum wage and having the same routine. I wanted to challenge myself in a new environment and have new experiences. Several of my friends were teaching in Korea and they recommended I give it a try. I found a job online and I soon found myself in Seoul, South Korea teaching English at a private school. The first few weeks were challenging as I adjusted to my new job and the culture shock. However, soon I found myself loving the job and my adopted country. I met a great group of friends from Korea and Canada and was able to travel to China, Japan and Thailand on Vacation. Best of all I was learning a new skill and saving $1200 every month. With the money I saved I was able to pay off my loans and pay for my graduate studies. Although the saving money was important the new friends I made and the experience of living in Asia were by far the most memorable.

- Mike

When my husband and I graduated with our B.Eds we were enthusiastic about teaching, but reluctant to settle down immediately. We had done very little international traveling and wanted to see a bit of the world before buying a house. We had both accrued debt while earning our degrees and we were eager to start paying it off. In choosing to move to Korea we were able to do both; travel and improve our debt situation. We couldn't have made a better choice. While living in Korea for 15 months we developed a love for Korean culture, enriched our teaching methodologies, traveled to China, Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, and Laos, and we successfully eliminated our debt. Now that my husband and I are back in Canada in our new house, we love reminiscing about our previous travels and are planning for new ones.

- Kate